ABOUT

I am currently in my final year of MA Industrial Design at Central Saint Martins where I continue to build upon my design process and identity. I have a strong interest in the wider role that design plays in story telling, engaging with an audience and ultimately bringing growth to brands. I believe that maintaining my engagement with physical, digital or experience-driven design is key to my development. I enjoy working within these different spaces and appreciate everything between holistic ideation work to negotiating the nitty-gritty details of a design.
